ABOUT

Transplat is a company that develops a software solution for accepting payments - Transenix. Transenix provides an opportunity to easily, quickly and cheaply build an infrastructure for accepting payments, and scale it.

Transenix is a product that turns a smartphone into a payment terminal with several payment methods and functionality that helps businesses automate and optimize accounting, scaling, control, performance analysis, etc. processes. The solution meets the latest Visa and Mastercard requirements

Our clients are small, medium, and businesses without a permanent location and need a simple and convenient way to accept non-cash payments.

MISSION

Our mission is to make cashless easy and accessible around the world, and automate the routine work of our customers so they can focus on what products and services give the final consumer value

Our goals

- To increase the presence in the markets of the USA and the countries of the European Union
- Completely close accounting and settlement issues of clients
- Enter the B2C market

ADVANTAGES

- a team of professionals with more than 30 years of experience in the field of payments and fintech
- deep understanding of the problems of the target audience and their effective solution
- the lightness and functionality of Transenix, which covers most of the needs of the end user, without the need for additional integrations and the purchase of additional equipment
- the possibility of developing additional functionality for specific customer requests

PARTNERSHIP

Our partners can be processing centers, banks, financial companies, trading networks, service provision networks, delivery services, etc.

Partnership provides a significant discount on the Transenix connection and revenue sharing
